

Winter

Reading Comprehension

Read the paragraph and answer the questions.

Winter had arrived, blanketing the town with snow and turning the trees into frosty sculptures. Every morning, Drew bundled up in his warmest coat, scarf, and boots before heading to school. The cold air stung his cheeks, but he didn't mind. He loved how the world looked after a fresh snowfall. It was sparkling and quiet as if the earth was taking a peaceful nap. During recess, Drew and his friends built snow forts and competed to see who could make the biggest snowball. In the evenings, Drew's family gathered around the fireplace, sipping hot cocoa and reading stories aloud. For Drew, winter wasn't just a season of cold. It was a time for fun, family, and finding warmth in small, special moments.
